Mother's Day at Stratford School

Mother's Day came early to Miss McCavera's class as her second grade students welcomed their mothers. The special guests were greeted in the hallway with a hug and a corsage. The students had been preparing for this special day for two months. They prepared five special poems and two songs as part of their presentation. Each mother was asked to stand as their child read aloud their special qualities. A coupon book, bookmark, placemat and seed packets were just some of the gifts. Each student made a terrarium and began growing wildflowers that can be replanted in home gardens. The second graders proudly shared their work which was on display inside and outside the classroom. The students also welcomed a special guest to share their day - Dr. Maureen Appiarius, Assistant Superintendent in charge of Personnel (standing, far right). Dr. Appiarius viewed all the children's work and listened to their choral readings. She was able to meet many mothers and students. Miss McCavera and her students enjoyed hosting this special morning!
